

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

1
2 A skateboard includes an elongated body having a top plate, a bottom plate and 3 two opposite closed side plates each located between the top plate and the bottom plate, a 4 support base formed on the mediate portion of the top plate, a plurality of reinforcing ribs
5 each longitudinally arranged in the elongated body and each supported between the top plate
6 and the bottom plate, two strengthened frames each longitudinally arranged in the elongated 7 body located adjacent to the support base, and each supported between the top plate and the 8 bottom plate, and a foam core material inside the elongated body located between the 9 strengthened frames and the reinforcing ribs.

Patented